

The Artisan

Artful Harvest

Southern Heartland's third annual art show and judged exhibit, Artful Harvest, sponsored by United Bank, is currently on display at the Newton County Public Library. The show features the best and most recent art of artists from Newton, Henry, Morgan, Jasper, Putnam, and Walton Counties.

The show had over 110 entries and was judged in both 2-D and 3-D categories. Well known Georgia Artist and instructor, Charles Young Walls, acted as judge for the show. Mr. Walls stated that when he entered the display area, he first assumed entries had been pre-juried, due to the quality of the work on display and the talent of the submitting artists. He said he could have chosen at least twenty-five he would have liked to have awarded prizes.

Best in Show, "Wheat Dreams"

This year's show had several junior entries as well. SHA is hopeful to involve additional students next year. Two of the student entries, Greg Jacoby and Irm a Ali, were awarded honorable mentions in the adult 2-D division.

The reception and awards presentation was held Thursday, September 16, and also served as our September Southern Heartland Art Guild meeting. The event was hosted by the Heartland Woman's Club, with outstanding refreshments provided by the Club's members.

Our thanks to our sponsor, UNITED BANK, and our hostesses, the women of Heartland Woman's Club. The show will hang through the 29th of September. Art may be purchased at the gallery on the square.
